A. The system has been designed to accommodate bottles up to a maximum height of 330 mm.

B. In developing the project, account was taken of the largest bottles of champagne or sparkling wine models (Ø 102 mm).

C. A year of study in the laboratory and major courier companies has allowed us to use the cardboard details only where you really need.

D. Each bottle is staggered around the battlements specially designed, in order to make the whole flexible and well locked.

E. The bottom spacers are greater than any other system on the market and their variable size is designed to cushion the blows in the most critical and vulnerable points.

F. The bottom and the side have a double wrapping cardboard pressboard, creating a double wall that can accept the most extreme falls.
